THINGS TO DO

Zanzibar is one destination where you can certainly idle away your time at the water's edge. But there are also tons of activities available if you're looking for things to do.

The island paradise has a rich history - one that includes adventurers, slave traders, princesses, pirates, missionaries, sailors, smugglers, spice merchants and sultans. Its role as a major trading port and colonial site makes it a fascinating melting pot. Zanzibar offers travelers an eclectic mix of culture, cuisine, and history that reflects the long-established ties between the island, Africa, the Middle East, and Europe.

From visiting a prison or a palace to having a meal at a food market or engaging in water sports, there's something for everyone.

STONE TOWN

With its winding alleys and old Arabic-style buildings, Stone Town feels like a labyrinth. Here you will find a mixture of Arabic, African, Indian and European cultures. Visit the old slave market, the Darajani Market Place, the House of Wonders, the Old Fort, and the Sultan's Palace to learn about Zanzibar's history and culture.

HOUSE OF WONDERS

The House of Wonders features architectural and cultural influences of Zanzibar, Britain, Portugal, and Oman from over the centuries. Built in 1883 for the second Sultan of Zanzibar, it was the first building in East Africa to have electricity and an elevator. Located in front of the Forodhani Gardens along the waterfront, it is the tallest building in Stone Town. Currently it is undergoing restoration, but visitors can still admire its beauty from the outside.

FORODHANI MARKET

In Stone Town, the Forodhani Gardens Park transforms into an open-air food market every evening. Here you will find local produce, freshly grilled fish, meats and vegetables. Seafood options are a popular choice and are typically served with fried potato balls, naan and samosas.

Enjoy the hustle of the outdoor markets

PRISON ISLAND

A trip to Prison Island provides visitors with a glimpse into Zanzibar's dark history. This former slave detention center is now a sanctuary for giant tortoises with a colony of beautiful peacocks. Prison Island can be reached by boat, about thirty minutes from Zanzibar.

THE OLD FORT

The Old Fort is the oldest building in Stone Town, located along the waterfront. Built in the 17th century to defend the island from attacks from the Portuguese, it is now a popular attraction for visitors to the island. The open-air amphitheater also hosts local shows and major events.

PALACE MUSEUM

Stone Town's most historic building - the Sultan's Palace. Originally built in the 19th century as a home for the Sultan and his family. After the 1964 revolution, the palace was renamed and used as a government building. Later in 1994, it became a museum of the Zanzibari royal family and history.

JOZANI FOREST

The largest indigenous forest on Zanzibar is located south of Chwaka Bay. This low-lying area is prone to flooding, which encourages trees and ferns to grow in its lush environment. A variety of birds can be found in this protected area, as well as the endangered monkey species only found in Zanzibar - the red colobus monkey. The Jozani forest is best reached via bus, chartered taxi, or as part of a tour.
